

Terminology for the ASSA Championships

We realize that many of our new participants may not be fluent in all the terminology and variations of the ASSA Championships.

This document will try define some of the terminology and make it easier to determine which matches one might want to enter.

There are 3 distinct matches being conducted during the week of shooting. Prone, 3-P, and F-SBR. And for prone and 3-P there are 2 sights configurations permitted, Iron Sights and Any Sights.

Prone- Laying on the ground and shooting targets at 50 Yards, 50 Meters and 100 yards. 4 matches per day. 40 shots per match for 160 record shots each day.

Iron Sights- These are the typical sights found on an air rifle or a 3-P smallbore rifle used in Junior, Collegiate, and Olympic rifle shooting.

Any Sights- Matches fired with “Any Sights” permits the use of telescopic sights also called scopes.

The Prone Championship is a 640 shot aggregate of the 4 days prone of shooting. It consists of two separate championships. The first two days are Iron Sights for the Iron Sights Prone Championship.

The next two days are Any Sights for the Any Sights Prone Championship. It is permissible to shoot with Iron Sights during the Any Sights competitions. Many junior shooters don't even own a scope and it is not a requirement to shoot with on.

3-P Three Position Rifle shooting. Prone, Standing, Kneeling in that order. The target will be the A50 international target fired at 50 meters. The 3-P Championship is a 2-day tournament.

3-P Iron Sights Championship is 120 shots. 40 Shots in each position. Two twenty shot targets for each position. So there will be 6 targets hung over the course of the day. The person with the highest score is the winner of the 3-P Iron Sights Championship

3-P Any Sights Championship- Is the same as the iron sights championship but one is permitted to use any sights as explained above.

F-SBR- F-SBR is a prone tournament that is fired at the same time as the Prone Championship over the same course of fire. The difference being the F-Class Smallbore Rifle shooters are not holding the rifle with a sling and shoulder and both hands. The F-SBR is shot from a rifle rest and with scopes. They also shoot on metric targets compared to conventional targets so the bullseye is ½ the size. But they have zero wobble in their hold.

In order to make entering our matches as flexible as possible we have created a multitude of entry types in order to suit the individual needs. All of the Junior entries are discounted prices. They will be listed below.
